The Catalan-Polish Cultural Association of Barcelona is a non-profit organization founded in 2000 by the Poles living in Catalonia. The main purpose of the organization, as it had been since its foundation, is to promote the cultural, social and economical exchange between Poland and Catalonia, as well as striving to consolidate a good reputation of Poland and the Polish who live in Catalonia and the whole of Spain.

The Association has evolved, therefore its articles needed to be modified. Our current activity scope has expanded by adding scientific and business related actions in order to cater for the necessities of modern Europe. The development of a united Europe can be efficiently accomplished if culture, science and business work hand-in-hand mutually complementing each other in terms of their discoveries and experiences. Science cannot exist without business, and business cannot further develop without technological discovery. That is, without being involved in the results of scientific investigations directly with economics, and culture and art mutually complement science. Language teaching creates bridges of understanding between society through common projects, such as artistic workshops, seminars and scientific conferences that influence the level of knowledge of modern society. The bond between culture, science and business and its mutual promotion is one of the key points to cooperation between European regions.

The major activities of the Association are:

- Organizing seminars and scientific/business meetings;
- Partnership in technological transfer projects, collection and data exchange about leading centers in Catalonia and Poland;
- Extended activity related to the promotion of Polish and Catalan science;
